Cutting Down the Wilmington Har bor Appropriation.

Another Credit Mobilier Affair—The Week's Failures—Bright to Visit Amer-ica—Egyptian News.

Washington, July 21 .- The Con ference Committee's report on the River and Harbor bill changes the appropriation bill for Wilmington harbor from $125,000 to $100,000.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee have been considering the Nicaragua Canal bill all the week, It is erstood that the bill has been maunderstood that the oil has been materially modified, and that the government and feature has been eliminated. There is an incipient sensation brewing, as usual, in Congress. A letter tary of the Cigar Makers' Union telehas been written by one J. J. Newell, graphs to the strikers here that they formerly of Adrain, Mich., in which he declares that he has documents to cinnati to get work. to prove that no less than two million dollars in money, stock and lands were furnished for a pool from 1868 to 1870, to secure the passage of a bill making the land grant to the Texas Pacific Railroad. His communication but I is thought one will die. says that $90,000 in money and $30,000 in stock were placed in the hands of two Senators to disburse where it half a corn crop in either State. and it was properly placed, so that eventually the grant was made in consequence. He alleges also that $1,000,000 in stock was used to pass the bill in the House by the votes of the members who took it, as the price of their favor to the corporation. He asks the committee to name a day when he can be heard, and he will demonstrate that an investigation should be made. He pledges himself to furnish the names of the men who disbursed and accepted bribes, and to prove the transaction by documentary evidence. Some of the committee are for stifling an inquiry, but it is understood that the majority favor hearing what Mr. Newell has to offer.

A Preight Decision.

An anecdote of President Lincoln about General Stoneman, printed in the Boston Advertiser, and editorially reprinted by the San Francisco Chhoneman in genuity of our mechanics when and ingenuity of our mechanics when a dispersion of the finest and flectest steamers on the ocean are of American contained in the theory of Lincoln that Stoneman had allowed his cavalry force of one thousand men to be captured by a detachment of infantry half as strong, some one lamented in the presence of Lincoln that Stoneman had been made prisoner. "I can make twenty just as good Generals as Stoneman is, any day," said Abe: "but those horses cost the Government $125 a piece."

An irreconcilable war exists between us and the English war exists betwee a soldier, and it was of him that President Lincoln made the quaint and cutting remark quoted above. It was near Macon, Georgia, more than two years later, that General Stoneman surrendered with seven hundred men, to an inferior force of the enemy.

The triple of the country, though greatly relieved, is still burthened with a heavy debt, forced upon us by Democratic policy—which our people are anxious, above all things, to liquidate and get rid of. Until that is done, our statesmen, however clear they may see the

DECLINE OF OUR NAVAL AND MEB- LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES

EDITOR TIMES: Our versatile friends of the Democratic press are wonderfully prolific in complaints against Republican policy, which, according to heir views, is hastening the downfall of the Republic. The particular string on which they are now playing merchant marine, with the modest intimation that seventeen years are quite fairs, reported this morning a substisufficient time to erase from our mem-tute for Rosecrans' bill, to incorporate ories the true cause of this decline. But, aside from this, is it fair in them to ascribe the decline to Republican policy? Did it never occur to these editors that the wings of policy may be elipped by circumstances, as well as the wings of their imagination? Are there not other causes to which it may be ascribed? During the war, and the seventeen years which have since elapsed, great changes have been made in ship-building, both in naval architecture and material of construction — wooden ships, even for the merchant service, having gone out of favor. This finds us unprepared to compete with England in the building of iron ships, owing mainly to the fact that our furnaces, forges and machine shops have been seedily employed in supplying ories the true cause of this decline. the Maritime Canal Company, of Nicaon and after April 1st the subscription price of the LOS ANGELES

In view of the drawbacks to produc-tion which have arisen in the native country of the Angora goat, and the de-mand which will always exist for this fine, durable and beautiful fiber, it is not impossible that mohair-growing may yet become a successful industry in Cal-ifornia. In any event, it may well be Angora goat culture was commenced in California twenty-one years ago, but has only been pushed (and not always with energy and intelligence) during about half of that time. It has not proved a success, nor yet a complete yet become a successful industry in California. In any event, it may well be given a fairer, fuller and more scientific trial than it has ever yet received on the Pacific Coast. It has been demonstrated in practical experience that this animal thrives better and produces a finer and heavier fleece in California than he does in his Asian home.
